Description : Description du produitLife imitates art in award-winning author Ngaio Marsh's second book, published in 1935. The brilliant Inspector Roderick Alleyn must discover who put the real bullet in a prop gun when a quarrel in a star's dressing room echoes the script of a new play.

Prsentation de l'diteurA classic Ngaio Marsh novel reissued. ENTER A MURDERERThe crime scene was the stage of the Unicorn Theatre, when prop gun fired a very real bullet; the victim was an actor clawing his way to stardom using bribery instead of talent; and the suspects included two unwilling girlfriends and several relieved blackmail victims. The stage is set for one of Roderick Alleyn's most baffling casesFrom AudioFileThe theatrical stage is a common setting in Marsh's novels. In this story, read by James Saxon, the blustering actor Arthur Surbonardier is killed when a stage prop pistol--which he personally loaded with blanks--fires a live bullet. There is no shortage of suspects who would want Surbonardier dead, but it's up to Inspector Alleyn to find the guilty player. Saxon's voice is as powerful as it is beautiful, possessing an energy that works alongside Marsh's writing to propel the plot. Classically engaging. S.E.S.
