Description :

Prsentation de l'diteurSeasoned investigator Tian Haifeng of the Nanjing Public Security Bureau has seen more murder victims than he can remember. Yet the face of a murdered woman excavated from a peat bog astounds and then haunts him. Ignoring orders, he makes the case his own and defiantly follows a trail across China from the banks of the Yangtze to the Taklamakan Desert, and across time to the origins of Xinjiang in remote North-Western China.THE FATHERS OF XINJIANG is the first in the original and entertaining TIAN HAIFENG CRIME SERIES, and is followed by: THE MOTHERS OF YUNNAN and THE SISTERS OF BEIJING - each revealing little-known facets of modern China.Prsentation de l'diteurSeasoned

As a speaker of Mandarin Chinese, he regularly explores China in search of themes for his novels. Moving on from his early work on children's fiction and sci-fi, he now concentrates on Chinese crime fiction, mixing realism with a touch of imagination in his highly-entertaining, original and informative Tian Haifeng Crime Series.
